Benchmarking means learning from and with others in a systematic way: identify your main process and look for competent partners who have solved your problem in a creative way. TERENA's conference brings together network experts from different countries. This is a good opportunity to find competent partners and to get fresh ideas.