Converging networks challenge network components in many different ways. Features like high bandwidth, low delay and high availability demand new levels of services all the time. This session highlights technology choices and solutions from a networking Vendors view. What requirements are expected in the foreseeable future? What are the limitations and future possibilities from a technology perspective? This presentation will not cover any products except for some architectural details.