

This presentation provides an overview of research and development projects sponsored by the European Space Agency. It will include a short section on funding possibilities within those programmes of the ESA Telecommunications Department, which are of interest to the European academic network research community.