

Last year, UK eScience commissioned a report to look at technologies for multi-site videoconferencing within the Programme. This report examined Access Grid, H.323/H.320, VRVS, non-studio-based systems and interoperability issues between them in order to produce a roadmap and recommendations. This is a summary of the main findings of that report.