

The SURFnet Video Portal facilitates the production and distribution of streaming media within the higher education and research community in Netherlands. It consists of an MPEG streaming server, a web-based asset management interface and a front end that allows users to search and browse the available collections. It also provides an online transcoding tool for converting media files and a web-based video editor for generating virtual clips and playlists.