

An update will be given on the SERENATE Project, a series of strategic studies into the future of research and education networking in Europe in five to ten years time. The studies look into regulatory issue, the market situation, economic and financial aspects and organisational issues, user needs and many other aspects.