Peter Alterman is Assistant Chief Information Officer for Electronic Authentication at the National Institutes of Health. He also serves as Senior Advisor to the Chair of the Federal PKI Steering Committee and is a member of the e-Gov e-Authentication Gateway Design Team. He has represented the Department of Health and Human Services on the PKI Steering Committee since 1997. Dr. Alterman has been actively involved in Internet technology since serving on the Federal Research Internet Coordinating Committee in 1989. In 1997, Dr. Alterman received the NIH Director's Award for "providing innovative leadership to NIH Executives and Managers by identifying and addressing critical issues in managing the information technologies of NIH." In 2002, he received the E-Gov Pioneer Award and the Potomac Forum Management and Leadership Best Practice Award for the NIH-Educause PKI Interoperability Project and Special Recognition Awards from the Federal Bridge Certification Authority and the Federal PKI Steering Committee. He received his Ph.D. in 1974 from the University of Denver.