

Steve Corbató is the Director of Backbone Network Infrastructure forUCAID and has project responsibility for the Abilene Network. Abilene currently provides high-performance connectivity and access to advanced services for over 180 research universities and affiliated institutions in the United States. Prior to joining Internet2 in June, 2000, he was the technical lead for the Pacific/Northwest Gigapop at the University of Washington, Seattle. He remains an affiliate faculty member in the Department of Computer Science and Engineering there. He is active in the networking effort for the annual SCxy high performance computing and networking conference. He is a member of the boards for the Internet Educational Equal Access Foundation (IEEAF) and Organization to Support Advanced Network Development (OSAND). <corbato@internet2.edu>