

Franck Bonnassieux has been a research engineer at CNRS for two years. He is currently involved in the national French grid project E-toile, and he is managing the network work package of the European DataGrid project. He had previously worked in the Proval Technology Society as a developer, and then in STERIA society as project leader for more than seven years. <franck.bonnassieux@free.fr>