

David Chadwick is professor of information systems security at the University of Salford. His research interests include PKI usability, trust management and policy-based security. He received a PhD from the University of Salford. He is a member of IEEE and ACM.
<d.w.chadwick@salford.ac.uk>