

Josh Howlett is a member of the Networking & Digital Communications group at the University of Bristol. His primary responsibility is the development of wireless, remote access and mobility services for the University's user community, with additional interests in network monitoring and management. <josh.howlett@bristol.ac.uk>

Nick Skelton is Co-ordinator of the ResNet team within the Networking & Digital Communications group at the University of Bristol. The ResNet team is responsible for providing advice and information on secure network access to mobile and remote autonomous users.