

Radovan Vrana, MSc., is a research assistant at the Department of Information Sciences at the Faculty of Philosophy, University of Zagreb. His areas of research include digital libraries and their development, development of IT supported library information services and preservation of the national book heritage. He is currently working on a PhD. thesis in scientific communication. <rvrana@ffzg.hr>