Leon Urbas joined a leading global company in fine chemistry after completing a PhD study on using simulators and the Internet for training operators in chemical plants. He went back to university in Oct 2000 to lead a junior research group sponsored by VolkswagenStiftung that is working on interdisciplinary methods for and applications of user modelling in complex, dynamic human-machine-systems. <leon.urbas@zmms.tu-berlin.de>