

BIOGRAPHY

Vlado Dadić is Ph.D. in the field of computing sciences. He works as scientist in the Institute of Oceanography and Fisheries and professor at the University of Split. Main fields of his 25 years work has been developing an GIS, databases and data management including data collecting, validation, archiving and exchange with respective formats and protocols.

Recently, his work has included developing of automatic oceanographic measuring systems with real time data validation and dissemination to web pages in receiving centers.