

BIOGRAPHY

Mr.sc. Lucijana Leoni is a lecturer superior for Italian language at the University of Dubrovnik, Croatia. In 2001 at the University Ca' Foscari in Venice, Italy, she completed the Master of language didactics, which was mostly organized online. Since then she is involved in exploring the possibilities offered by online education in the field of teaching and learning foreign languages.

She is proposed as a representative of the University of Dubrovnik in the TEMPUS Joint European Project entitled “ Education Quality Improvement by E-Learning Technology”, starting in 2005.

In 2005 she became an online tutor in one network project at the University “La Sapienza” in Rome, Italy.

Lucijana Leoni is interpreter for Croatian, Italian, French and English language and translated several books, papers and brochures.

She believes that the models of e-learning will improve the communication in the learning-teaching process at and help the University of Dubrovnik to keep up with the internationalization of European universities.
