

Petar Jandrić is an expert associate at Croatian Academic and Research Network - CARNet in Zagreb. In 2004 he started a project "Development and Implementation of Online Courses" and is involved on several other educational projects.

His work and studies are focused on humanistic aspects of online education – mostly organisational, pedagogical, methodical and communicational. He has attended online courses in Croatia. Together with colleagues he regularly publishes project results on company level, as well as in front of scientific community. Petar Jandrić published two papers and is a frequent speaker before information and education experts.